The Pennsylvania Reserves!

SEVENTH ANNUAL REUNION!

Address of Capt. Wm. W. McClelland.

COMRADES AND FRIENDS:—At the last meeting of our Association, you delegated to me the honor, however undeserved, of addressing you upon this the occasion of our seventh Annual Reunion. At such a time, among such associations as cluster around our organization, amid such a concourse as is here assembled, composed of citizen-soldiers of our parent State, what topic springs so spontaneously to the heart and to the lip as our own Commonwealth! Let us pass the hour in recounting her triumphs, in recalling her power, and in petitions for her prosperity. For whose hearts should beat more warmly for her honor and good name than those who have faced peril in her defence and shed their blood for her preservation?

When our sturdy ancestor, William Penn, pitched his tents on the banks of the Delaware, like Emerson's architect, "He builded wiser than he knew." A Royalist himself, and vassal of a king, he founded a nation of republicans. A man of peace and a hater of war, he unwittingly created a "race of soldiers," and our Royal Quaker would have been dumb with amazement could the veil of two centuries have been lifted to reveal to him the result of his own handiwork.

The feeble colony planted by his hand soon ripened into a powerful community; brave, because the times and the situation demanded that men should be alert to protect and avenge; intelligent, because its founders were no reckless adventurers seeking new fields for plunder and oppression, but men of reason and thrift, loving social order and regarding intelligence as its foundation. As time advanced and the masses of Europe sought here that freedom which was denied them at home, the industrious Swede, thrifty German, enthusiastic Irishman, and cautious Scot all mingled their varied characteristics in our primitive community, and produced the Pennsylvania of '76 and of to-day.

Men may vary in their moral and intellectual traits, in their nationality, religion, taste, habits, and feelings, and yet all know what liberty is. The idea of freedom is sweet to any man whether he come from the Danube, Tiber, Thames, or Susquehanna. He is equally inspired by its possession and writhes under its loss. When, therefore, Great Britain attempted to lay a heavy hand upon her American colonies, and strove to wring from them vast sums to defray the expenses of her European wars, the people of our primitive colony—differing as they did from each other in birth, training, and lineage—sprang as one man to resent it. Consider what forms of oppression Great Britain tried to exercise, and howstinging they would be to a Pennsylvanian above all others. She compelled the American farmer to send his products to England, and to buy all his goods in British markets only. She forbade American manufactures. She denounced our iron works as "common nuisances," and declared that America "had no right to manufacture even a nail for a horseshoe." With Pennsylvania, therefore, revolution was not rebellion. It was a struggle for self-preservation, and how gallantly she maintained it! Within her borders, on the very spot afterwards sanctified by the Declaration of Independence, was held in 1774 a Continental Congress—before even the first gun of Revolution was fired at Lexington. She was one of the earliest to commit herself to the struggle, and how she prosecuted it every Pennsylvania school-boy is familiar. The Continentals, in their semi-Quaker uniforms, were the steadiest ranks of the army. When other troops had expended their impetuosity and wavered, or too often fled, the Continentals stood a living wall which nothing could break. And who were the Continentals? "The Pennsylvania troops of the line." Let the history of these men, led by Mifflin, Cadwallader, and "Mad Anthony Wayne," show what Pennsylvania did in the field. What she did in the Cabinet, the record of Robert Morris will tell. He it was who wielded the finances of our impoverished country, created resources where none existed before, even stripped himself of his own private fortune to cast it in the public store, and died in penury—a voluntary sacrifice for his country. What Pennsylvania did abroad let Franklin answer. That patriot-sage, to whose wisdom and majestic simplicity even kings paid court, secured the moral and material aid of the most potent of England's rivals. In him all civilization recognizes not only the diplomatist, who gained kings and ministers to himself and his cause, as if by some process of enchantment, but also the accomplished philosopher. The world is still shocked by the recent death of Professor Morse. But that man, illustrious as he is, was but the pupil of a greater than he, and the telegraph sprang from the master hand of Franklin guiding that of Morse.

With the Revolution may be said to have ceased the first great epoch of the history of our State. She came out of that struggle crippled and exhausted, but full of resource and vitality. Her vast stretch of richest territory, in extent the second of the original thirteen colonies, with her hills and valleys studded with the most precious minerals; her people energetic, thrifty, and lovers of law and order. Then commenced a stride of unparalleled prosperity which placed our noble Commonwealth the foremost of the States, and made her the reliance of the country in the mighty shock so soon to impend, as she had been in '76. The intermediate wars with England and Mexico, but served to polish her weapons, and the beginning of the late war found her a powerful community, strong in men, money, valor, and patriotism.

The history of a people is the aggregate of individual histories. The part borne by our State in the war for the Union is made up simply of what individual Pennsylvanians did. All true Pennsylvanians are proud of their record made by our citizen soldiery, and of these let us take the Pennsylvania Reserve Volunteer Corps as a type, and recall our own experience. Any honor that we have won is the honor of our Commonwealth also, and without exposure to the imputation of unduly heralding our own exploits, we may fairly recount the story of our Corps as a page of the illustrious record which Pennsylvania has written for the Union and for liberty itself.

The execution of the act of May 15th, 1861, summoned the Pennsylvania Reserve Volunteer Corps into existence.

To one man more than any other do we look as the father of the Reserves, whose name strikes the chords of love and sympathy in the heart of every true soldier, whose name is so inseparably a part of our war history that its very mention drives back the tide of recollection ten years, and recalls the thunder of cannon and the rattle of musketry, as if they were present realities. I mean Pennsylvania's war Governor, Andrew G. Curtin. That far sighted magistrate saw what the authorities at Washington failed to see, that the strife would be protracted and bloody. We were assembled for State defence, and were entitled to limit our service to our own borders. But instantly the distinction between State and Nation was cast to the winds, and, with the noble McCall at your head, you forgot that you were "Reserves," and hastened to the front. Here let it be remembered that Pennsylvania sent the first troops to the field. On the morning of the 18th of April a handful of gallant Philadelphians reached Washington and announced themselves as ready for duty.

Out of the chaotic mass of soldiers around Washington the skilful hand of General McClellan soon brought order and organized the Army of the Potomac—historic name—complete and perfect itself. Our Division was given the post of honor—the right of the line and at Drainesville the first victory of the Army of the Potomac was achieved by a portion of the Reserve Corps. The disasters of Bull Run and Ball's Bluff had thrown a gloom over the North, and the result of this minor engagement cast a gleam of sunshine upon our darkened prospects.

After the transfer of the army to the Peninsula, the Reserves were again placed on the right of the line, on the Chickahominy, and in a short time plunged into the terible "Seven Days' Battles." The first of these was the hotly contested action at Mechanicsville, where after untiring exertion and heavy loss, the enemy, largely superior in numbers, by your stubborn resistance was prevented from turning the right of our line. That night and the next morning we fell back to Gaines Hill, where the Reserves under General Fitz John Porter were fiercely engaged. To give you a little rest it had been determined to hold the Division in reserve, but hardly had the battle commenced before you were in the thickest of the fight. For the time engaged this was the fiercest and most sanguinary battle of the war, and in the mind of every soldier the name Gaines Hill is the synonyme for slaughter. Without rest or respite succeeded the engagement at New Market Cross Roads. Here, as in the preceding days, your loss was great. The attempt of the enemy to drive our army very nearly proved successful. Divisions were disorganized, brigades broken and regiments scattered; men fought side by side without reference to organization or commander. Columns formed under the banner of the Union, and charged wherever an officer led. But, their lines shattered and decimated, unable to contend against the concentrated fire of double their number, they sullenly fell back over the field which had been theirs.

The remnant of our exhausted army next made a stand at Malvern Hill. The result of this contest was undoubtedly a complete, though unavailing victory for our army, but we were in no condition to take advantage of the demoralization of the enemy. During those seven days and nights the sons of Pennsylvania bore themselves as heroes should, and covered themselves and our Commonwealth with lustre. The Reserves lost nearly one-fourth of their number, and the remainder were worn out and exhausted from over-exertion and hunger. Our line of march and halts for battle made one vast pestilent cemetery. Men and horses dropped down from exhaustion. Wounds were fatal which elsewhere would have been harmless.—Scorching heat, poisonous marshes, thirst and hunger, joined with the bullet of a powerful and ever-present enemy to magnify the horrors of that week of death and disaster.

At Harrison's Landing, the harvest of sickness and death was pitiful. To die for one's country may be sweet, but to be racked with fever, palsied by disease, are forms of death for one's country which reasonable beings, although heroes, would not select. You bore yourselves as became the sons of those who suffered at Valley Forge.

The longed for change soon came.—Gen. Lee had advanced down the Shenandoah, and the Army of the Potomac was recalled from the Peninsula to intercept him. You met your old enemy in an artillery skirmish near Gainesville, and the next day you were plunged into the fierce engagement of Second Bull Run. In this action all the available forces of both sides were fully engaged. Our army had been marching for days without rest, and with but little to eat. The artillery and cavalry horses had been in harness and saddled for two weeks, and were in no condition to give battle to our confident opponent. The fate of the battle was still against us, and the Army of the Potomac had another page of fruitless heroism to add to its history. Will, can any member of the Reserve Corps forget the inspirating action of our gallant and fearless commander, General Reynolds, when the troops on our right gave way in confusion? At that critical instant he grasped the flag of the Second Regiment and dashing to the right rode up and down the line. The effect upon you was electrical. Every man put forth renewed energy and in a short time the thinned ranks of the enemy gave evidence of your earnestness. Vain effort of the Reserves! The fortune of war still frowned upon our arms. Death had held carnival in our ranks, and our wasted and bleeding columns withdrew from that field just as the rays of the setting sun tinted the firmament with a ruddy glow, as if the reflection of the scene of blood beneath.

Three days after, the Army of the Potomac was encamped within the lines of defense around Washington, and we were gladdened by the return of our old commander. Almost immediately by his masterly ability, he collected them into the well-disciplined army it had been before his removal. By this time General Lee with his whole army had crossed the Upper Potomac, and was devastating Maryland man threatening Pennsylvania. Gen. McClellan, collecting and organizing his forces as he went, advanced to meet him, and two weeks after our inglorious defeat at Bull Run, a portion of the Army of the Potomac, stormed and carried South Mountain as you fought your way up the eastern side of the mountain. Inch by inch the enemy combatted your ascent, and poured showers of lead from every ravine and rock. The summit was gained and the joyful shout that went up from the whole line and re-echoed by our comrades along the pike in the valley below, hastened the flight of the panic stricken enemy down the western slope. This victory, after a series of disasters, electrified the country. It seemed as if the reward of our trials and sufferings was at hand, and the current of success had set in our favor.

The evening previous to the battle of Antietam the Reserves again took the advance, and the fierce contest in and beyond the corn field convinced our adversary that the old spirit remained, and was a foretaste of the fiercer contest of the 17th. In this engagement you nobly fulfilled the part assigned you, and when night flung its veil over the scene, as if to screen the ghastly spectacle from the eye of Heaven, Gen. Lee, his army, crippled ordered a retreat across the Potomac, leaving the field to our victorious troops. But a victory! For fourteen long hours two large armies, with numberless pieces of artillery, had struggled with the ferocity of desperation. Around us lay thousands of our dead and wounded comrades, while a still greater number of the enemy had been left behind. A few more such victories and the Pennsylvania Reserves would have existed only in the memory of their country men.

A pause followed this fearful struggle, and when the Army of the Potomac next met the foe, it was under a new commander. It was thought the interests of the service demanded a change of leaders, and Gen. McClellan was removed. In the wisdom of this change I hardly think the mass of our army agreed, and without thinking to urge our sentiments upon the convictions of the country, for obedience and not criticism is the duty of the soldier. Gen. McClellan's successor, however, was one of the most gallant of men. If unfortunate, it was rather from the conjuncture of adverse circumstances than the want of merit in himself, and the name of Burnside is worthy of the roll of commanders of the Army of the Potomac.

At the battle of Fredericksburg our Division—now numbering little more than a brigade—was selected to make the attack, on the left, that was to break Gen. Lee's line. You advanced and drove the enemy from his entrenched line and occupied his camps beyond, securing a substantial advantage. The issue of the battle turned upon the reserves holding the position they had been ordered to gain and had gained.—Gen. Lee knew this and concentrated his every effort to recover that portion of his line. Massive columns in gray closed around that devoted band of Reserves, yet you stood an unshrinking target for the pitiless fire of your powerful adversary, hoping to the last that you would not be left unsupported. Still no assistance came, and when ammunition and hope itself had failed, you retired step by step to the ground left two hours before, shorn of one-third your number. The other Divisions had vainly thrown themselves against the strengthened heights back of the town' and after fearful slaughter the army withdrew from that field. Certain demagogues and newspapers, by distance secured from danger, had clamored for action. In obedience to the outcry Gen. Burnside fought this battle against his better judgment, and it terminated, as he dreaded, in disaster, a further lesson of the bitter fruits of incompetent dictation.

Another change of commanders was followed by another defeat, and Chancellorsville was added to the list of reverses to our arms. In this battle only a portion of the artillery of our Division was engaged. The Secretary of War acceded to the personal appeals of Gov. Curtin and the infantry had been ordered to return to the vicinity of Washington, there to fill up your depleted ranks.

During the whole of June, (63) from information received by Gen. Hooker, it was evident that Gen. Lee meditated a movement that was to strike terror to the hearts of our people, and revive the hopes of the confederates. When therefore, you heard that the Potomac had been crossed with the unmistakable intention of invading Pennsylvania, you promptly petitioned for permission to rejoin the Army of the Potomac and assist in defending your threatened homes, families and firesides. Could this request be granted you felt that you would not diminish, if you could not increase, the lustre that already attached to the name of the Reserve Corps. In response to these appeals the necessary orders were issued and with lightened hearts and springing steps you sped away on the march towards our imperilled Commonwealth, each muscle nerved by the stinging memories of Gaines Hill and Fredericksburg, and every eye glancing mingled hope of revenge and joy at the opportunity. You were attached to the Fifth Corps then commanded by one who had been your immediate commander from the time you entered the service. You felt that under his eye you would be invincible.—But on the march you heard the Army of the Potomac hailed a new commander. The hand of another was to guide it in the approaching conflict. And he was a leader worthy of this mighty trust. He had entered the struggle like ourselves, and as commander of brigade, division and corps he had shared the fortunes of the Army of the Potomic in its victories and defeats. He was a Pennsylvanian, and a Reserve like ourselves, our comrade; a soldier trained to the pursuit of arms, in the study, as in the field. He had fought under the flag of his country on the plains of Mexico. An accomplished gentleman; a man of thought as well as action.

"A sage in council

need I speak his name? Recognition of the picture gleams in the eye of every soldier within sound of my voice. Gen. Meade was the chosen of the heroes to lead the veterans of the Army of the Potomac to battle. It was an appalling responsibility from whose weight it was no disgrace for any soldier to shrink. Leader after leader had successively grasped the ill-fated baton, but under each defeat and disaster had been our portion. When he ascended to that deadly eminence therefore, the heart of each Reserve felt a thrill of pride with mingled apprehension, for it seemed as if Fate itself had pre determined that our arms should be for a sport and mockery. But the bloody splendors of the battle field were to be unfolded on our own soil, and it was fitting that the honor of our State and the defence of our homes should be committed to his hand. With equal fitness the gallant Reynolds, and the knightly Hancock, sons of our Commonwealth became his chief lieutenants; and Pennsylvanians led the van in the deliverance of Pennsylvania.

When the battle of Gettysburg was fought I was on recruiting duty in the interior of our State, and was not permitted to participate in the glory you had won. What I have to say of this battle is not drawn from personal observation, but from the relation of my comrades, and what has passed into history.

When General Meade assumed command of the Army of the Potomac, the enemy was marching up the Cumberland Valley, one hundred thousand strong, flushed with success. Large detachments already occupied York and Carlisle, while others menaced Columbia and Harrisburg. General Meade intended a movement of his whole army to engage the enemy and force him to fight whenever and wherever he should encounter him. In the execution of this plan General Reynolds was sent forward to occupy the heights at Gettysburg, while at the same time Hill's Corps followed by the whole of the confederate army, assumed a line of march for the same place. Two miles from Gettysburg the combatants met. Gen. Reynolds found our cavalry already engaged. That impetuous hero hesitated not an instant. He sent for no instructions, knowing it was General Meade's intention to fight the first opportunity, and here was

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

Friday, May 31, 1872.

Brigadier General Harrison Allen.

We have carefully abstained from any editorial comments upon the candidates named by the Republican Convention of this State, believing that an early exposure of their public character and record might lead to their withdrawal. This cannot be done now. To use Lincoln's homely phrase "It would be swapping horses while crossing a stream."

But, as the Republican party is boasting of the military record of their candidates,—though we do not regard that as the best test as to fitness for a civil office—we propose to give that of "Brigadier General Harrison Allen"—their candidate for the important office of Auditor General. Not that he is their only hero on the ticket, because it contains the classic name of Gen. Todd for Congressman at large, as well as that of Gen. White, who marched to Richmond without a struggle. Besides, it is led by the name of Maj. Gen. Hartranft,—the hangman of an innocent woman at the dictation of men who freed Jeff Davis, and gave office to Longstreet—who was nominated for Governor through the instrumentality of Gen. Joshua T. Owen, who was sentenced by a court martial to be dismissed the army on the charge of being found drunk in the streets of Harper's Ferry, and insulting the daughter of his Lieut. Col.

Now, however, we have to do with the hero Allen, and we take extracts from his record as given by the Yankee historian of Penn'a. soldiers, Mister Bates, as compiled in a recent number of the Patriot.

Harrison Allen, Major 10th Reserves, June 29, 1861.

Resigned, February 14, 1862.

The only mention of him in connection with this regiment, whose gallantry was illustrated on so many bloody fields, is this: "On the 14th of February, Major Allen, having been for a long time in ill health, resigned, and Adjutant Sion B. Smith was elected to succeed him."

This is from Bates' History, a work in which heroes like Allen generally managed to get all that could be favorably said about them, and often a good deal more. While he was with the Reserves he did not even witness an affair of the pickets. When spring came, and preparations for an early campaign commenced, he resigned. Had he been a private soldier he could have got no discharge on his application on account of disability.

After recruiting his health in the summer of 1862, while his regiment was in the swamps of the Chickahominy, he turned up, in October, 1862, as colonel of the one hundred and fifty-first, (nine month's) regiment. The first action in which the regiment was engaged was Gettysburg, but Colonel Allen was not in command. He was "absent on furlough," and his regiment was led by Lieut. Col. M'Farland, who lost a leg in the battle. "July 27, 1863, mustered out with his regiment."

The name of Harrison Allen does not again appear on the rolls of the army until March, 1865, when we find the following entry:

"Promoted to Brig. Gen. March 13, 1865."

The war closed about this time, and thus was Harrison Allen deprived of the eagerly coveted opportunity of commanding a brigade. Such is his record. His title of Brigadier is a fraudulent one. It was obtained, as seen by this record, without merit and without service. Like many others it was procured by base solicitation and mendacious boasting at the back door of the war office. While the true soldiers of Pennsylvania were campaigning in 1863, 1864 and 1865, this carpet knight who never witnessed an action, at the close of the war, nearly two years after his muster out of service, is honored with the rank and title of a Brigadier General. His was one of those miserable partisan appointments which so deeply insulted the fighting men of the army, because it was based on a false and fraudulent record of service. On this bogus military capital he traded for the nomination for auditor general. He and his supporters expect that it will serve to veil his disreputable career, in the legislature. They propose to veneer the bad record of a legislative pincher with a fraudulent pretense of military service.

Soldiers of Pennsylvania—Republicans,—how do you like the war record of your candidate?

Hereafter we will show that his civil record is worse.

Important for the People.

It is exceedingly important that the people should keep posted as to the laws passed from time to time affecting their interests. In this issue of the paper we refer to a number of acts of the late Legislature which have become laws by the signature of the Governor. Lawyers, Justices of the Peace and the people at large will find the COLUMBIAN invaluable for this reason, if for no other. In this article we shall name a few.

1st. An act to allow all defendants to be witnesses in their own behalf in all cases not above the grade of misdemeanor, except in indictments for perjury and forgery.

2nd. That all elections for borough and township officers shall be held at the places designated before the passage of the acts of 1869 and 1871, except where otherwise provided by a decree of the Court or by statute. This act, for example, will restore the spring elections to Light Street.

3d. The State Superintendent is authorized to appoint two trustees for each State Normal School.

4th. Enabling married women to purchase sewing machines without the consent of their husbands, and making the contract binding.

5th. An act authorizing the Courts to grant charters of incorporation to water, gas, town-hall, and market companies, and to associations for the preservation of birds, fish and game.

GENERAL BEN. BUTLER has been chosen for the Massachusetts Fifth district as delegate to the Grant convention—instructed to go for Grant. Ben says the outlook, from his oblique point of view, is very foggy and smells of cheese.

THE Cincinnati Gazette (administration) says: "The heaviest load the Republican party has to carry is to be found in the United States Senate, in the persons of such men as Chandler, Cameron, Pomeroy, Caldwell, Spencer and Nye."

THE Louisville Ledger says that "there are three political parties in this country at present—the Democratic, Radical, and Liberal. The former, by thousands stronger than either of the other two, is asked to hitch on its great ship to the stern of the latter's tug-boat and float idly through the campaign."

A Specimen Civil Servant.

Some time ago an announcement was made from Washington that Mr. Samuel L. Casey, Collector of the Port of New Orleans, had been removed from his place. The official career of this man had been so scandalous, the protection which he had so long enjoyed was so powerful, that the announcement of his dismissal was received with equal approval and surprise by the public. His faults were mainly those of an unscupulous partisan. He was the brother-in-law of the President. It was thought that these circumstances secured him against question for his acts. When it was stated, therefore, that Gen. Grant had dismissed him, the act was greeted with very general praise. It was not only a good but a promising thing to do. People began to think that Cincinnati was doing a beneficient work, even in the Executive Mansion. There were those who imagined that Cramer might be brought home.

But the approval, as in many other cases, came too soon. There is no confirmation of the good news. Casey still sits at the receipts of Customs in the Crescent City. The name of no successor has as yet reached the Senate, though the end of the session is near.

It will be well to rehearse some of the reasons why Mr. Casey is not a proper person to remain in any high Government office. Many well-meaning people think the only objection to him is his relationship to the President's family. This connection serves him as a tower of strength. He can do what he pleases, and defend himself against all criticisms by merely saying, "All that is nothing but hostility to Ulysses." Under this regis, Mr. Casey has allowed himself liberties that ought not to be permitted even to brothers-in-law. One of his exploits was putting in practice an entirely new, and, we may hope, unique system of controlling political organizations. When the Republicans of Louisiana assembled in State Convention at New Orleans last Fall, they found the convocation removed to Mr. Casey's Custom-house and guarded by United States troops. This arbitrary abuse of power was for the purpose of keeping out such delegates as might be considered unfriendly to Grant or Custom-house interest. Tickets of admission were required of every citizen who desired to enter the building—which was the property of the nation—and Marshal Packard sat in his office and peddled out the coveted pieces of pasteboard which gave entrance to the Custom-house, guarded as it was by companies of two United States Infantry and four Gatling guns. These facts have never been gainsaid; they can never be defended.

Having succeeded in dividing the party at the Convention, Collector Casey, intent on having things his own way, tried to break up the State Legislature, which had in it an anti-Grant majority. In violation of law, he lent the revenue cutter Wilderness to the conspirators, who fled in order to prevent a quorum. Laughing at this shrewd trick, he kept that vessel, the property of the nation, steaming up and down the Mississippi, in full sight of the city, with the fugacious legislators on board, defying civil process from their floating fortress.

These are fair specimens of the kind of work Collector Casey has thought proper to furnish for the benefit of the President and kinsmen who pretend to be in favor of a reform of the Civil Service. Nobody attempts to justify these instances of zeal, but the President, for whom these outrages were committed, accepts them and continues his favor to the perpetrators, and the entire party which supports him agrees to profit by this shameless lawlessness. There are gentlemen devoted to the cause of re-election whom we cannot suspect of insincerity in their advocacy of reform in the appointment and control of civil officers. But they are blind and dumb before these glaring proofs of the contempt in which their President and their candidate holds their principles.—Tribune.

Acts of Assembly.

BY an act of the last Legislature, public schools are now required to be kept open five months in a year. The following is the act increasing the school term:

Be it enacted, etc., That the word five shall be inserted in the place of the word four in section twenty-eight, act of May, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four, and school directors shall keep the schools of their respective districts in operation five months in the year: Provided, That the length of term may remain as at present, in the districts where the maximum amount of tax allowed by law to be levied for school purposes shall be insufficient to keep the school open a greater length of time.

THE following act passed by the last Legislature, will be interesting to the traveling public:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted, etc., That the proviso in section five of an act to prevent fraud upon travelers, approved the sixth day of May, Anno Domni one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, be and the same is hereby amended, so that the same shall read as follows: Provided, That this act shall not prohibit any person who has purchased a ticket from any agent authorized by this act, with the bona fide intention of traveling upon the same the whole distance between the points named in the said ticket, from selling the unused part of the same to the company that sold the same; and it shall be the duty of the said company to pay for such unused portion of the ticket the difference between the actual fare to the point used and the amount paid for such ticket.

So many of our farmer friends have been victimized by rascally patent right agents, that the following act passed by the last Legislature, and now become a law under the Governor's signature will undoubtedly prove of interest:

That whenever any promissory note or other negotiable instrument shall be given, the consideration for which shall consist in whole or in part of the right to make, use or vend any patent invention or inventions, claimed to be patented, the word "given for a patent right," shall be prominently and legibly written or printed on the face of such note or instrument, above the signature thereto; and such note or instrument, in the hands of any purchaser or holder, shall be subject to the same defenses as in the hands of the original owner or holder.

2. If any person shall take, sell or transfer any promissory note or negotiable instrument, not having the words, "given for a patent right," written or printed legibly and prominently on the face of such note or instrument, to consist in whole or in part of the right to make, use or vend any patent invention or inventions claimed to be patented, every such person or persons shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding sixty days, or both, in the discretion of the court.

3. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

It is said that J. Edgar Thompson, President of the Pennsylvania R. R. has been threatened with softening of the brain and has gone to Europe to avert the calamity. Col. Thos. A. Scott, Vice President, has been ordered by his physicians to lessen his labors, or his life would pay the forfeit. The second Vice President has already been sent to an Insane Asylum. This gigantic monopoly would seem, therefore, to be as dangerous to its owners as to the interests of the general public.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate on Wednesday May 22, the outrageous Habeas Corpus Suspension Act was passed, by a vote of 28 to 15, Supplementary Civil Rights bill, the Amnesty bill and the Supplementary Apportionment bill.

Nothing was done in the House.

No business of general interest was transacted on the 23d and 24th.

The Senate, on Saturday last, by the requisite two-thirds vote, advised the President to negotiate an additional article to the Treaty of Washington on the basis recently proposed by the British government, though in a form somewhat different from it, but not altered in principle. The President and Secretary Fish were officially advised of the action of the Senate, and a telegram was sent by the latter to Minister Schenck acquainting him with the facts for the information of the British government.

The only action of importance on Monday was that of the House extending the time for adjournment to June 31.

The Senate on Tuesday last concurred in the House resolution to adjourn on the 31 of June. The House rejected the Ku Klux bill, and also the supplementary Civil Rights bill.

NEWS

At Ithaca, N. Y., last Friday morning, an incendiary fire broke out in some buildings on Fall creek. One of the fire steamers was stationed on the bridge over the creek, and when the fire was nearly extinguished the bridge fell, carrying down the engine and about two hundred people into the water twenty-five feet below. Fifteen persons, including some students of Cornell University, were injured, some of whom are not expected to recover.

The Gaulois publishes a letter from the Emperor Napoleon, dated Chiselhurst, May 12, and addressed to the generals and commandants of the French army. In this communication the Emperor makes the following acknowledgement:

I am responsible for Sedan. The army fought heroically with an army double its strength. After 14,000 had been killed or wounded I saw the contest was merely one of desperation. The army's honor having been saved I exercised my sovereigh right and unfuried the flag of truce. It was impossible that the immolation of 60,000 men could save France. I obeyed a cruel, inexorable necessity. My heart was broken but my conscience was tranquil!

At the session of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of Pennsylvania, on May 21th, the following officers were elected: Grand Master, Wm. Stedman; Deputy Grand Master, Jacob M. Campbell; Grand Warden, Isaac A. Sheppard; Grand Secretary, James B. Nicholson; Grand Treasurer, M. Richard Muckle; Grand Representative, R. A. Lambertson. Grand Master Stedman, on taking his seat, made an address.

The success of the mechanics who struck for eight hours of labor, in New York, has had the effect of inducing other workers in different branches of trade to follow their example. It is said that 30,000 men are organized in the city for the same object.

THE Atlantic cable announces the death of Sir Henry Bulwer. He was born in 1804, and passed his active life in the diplomatic service of Great Britain. He served as British Minister in Washington from 1849 to 1852. While in the United States he negotiated the well-known Bulwer-Clayton treaty. For his services he was raised to the peerage in 1871 as Baron Dalling and Bulwer. He was elder brother of the great novelist.

The boiler of the tug-boat Epsilon exploded Monday in the East River New York as she was towing a vessel out of the dock. The tug immediately sank, carrying down with her several of her crew. The consequences of this fresh instance of rotten boilers are simply six lives lost and many persons wounded, some slightly, some seriously.

Southwestern Missouri has been visited by a terrible tornado. Several farms, with their houses, barns, orchards, and fences, were completely destroyed, and besides two persons killed twelve were wounded, some of them it is feared fatally.

A perfect carnival of crime prevails in New York City, murders and suicides being of daily occurrence. Two or three violent deaths per day is about the average.

THE N. Y. Sun, (Republican,) says of the investigation into the frauds of the New York Custom House:

Enough evidence and more than enough has already been taken in the Custom House investigation in this city to prove that one of two things must be true. Either—

I. President Grant has from the first understood the great frauds and robberies committed by the Custom House Ring, and its affiliations, upon the commerce of New York, and has shared in the fruits of those robberies. Or else—

II. He has not understood anything about them, but has been deluded and imposed upon by his staff officers, cronies and camp followers, who alone have profited and been enriched by the large sums of money of which our merchants have thus been plundered.

If the first hypothesis be true, President Grant is a scoundrel.

If the second hypothesis be true, President Grant is a fool.

Is there any third conclusion which can possibly be drawn from the facts developed by the Senate Committee of investigation and retrenchment? If there is any such third explanation, will somebody mention it and state the reasons by which it is supported?

The friends and advocates of General Grant, without exception, adopt the second hypothesis. They do not put it as plainly as we have done, but they all agree in one way or another in arguing that President Grant is a fool.

Which horn of the dilemma will Grant's friends take—rascal or fool?

Senatorial Conference.

The Democratic Senatorial Conference for the 15th District, met Thursday, May 24, at the "Danville House," in Danville, Montour county.

The following named conferees appeared and took their seats:

Lycoming county—John Piatt, N. B. Kimble, John J. Metzger and Alfred Howell.

Columbia county—C. G. Barkley, Mordecai Millard, William B. Koons and Michael F. Eyerly who was substituted for William H. Jacoby, absent.

Montour county—J. Reese Phillips and Thos. Rutler who was substituted for Hon. J. C. Ellis, absent.

On motion, Charles G. Barkley of Columbia was chosen President, and Nathan B. Kimble of Lycoming, Secretary.

Mr. Phillips moved that the conferees of Montour county be authorized to cast four votes in the Conference, which motion was adopted.

The President then announced that nominations for a delegate to represent this Senatorial district in the next Democratic State Convention, to be held at Reading, May 30th, were in order.

Mr. Piatt nominated Chas. D. Emery, Esq., of Lycoming.

Mr. Phillips nominated Jesse C. Ammerman, Esq., of Montour.

Upon a vote being taken, Messrs. Barkley, Millard, Koons, Eyerly, Piatt, Kimble, Metzger and Howell, 8, voted for Mr. Emery.

Messrs. Phillips and Butler, 2, voted for Mr. Ammerman, whereupon Mr. Emery was declared elected, and on motion of Mr. Phillips of Montour his election was made unanimous.

On motion of Mr. Eyerly the following resolution was adopted, unanimously.

Resolved, That in all future Senatorial Conferences the counties of Lycoming and Columbia shall be each entitled to four conferees, and the counties of Montour and Sullivan shall each be entitled to two conferees.

No properly authorized conferees from Sullivan county were present, but information was received through Michael Meylert, Esq., that the standing committee of that county had ratified the choice of Lycoming for senatorial delegate.

Bishop Thomas Bowman of the Methodist Episcopal Church--Sermon in the Brooklyn, N. Y., Academy of Music--The Salvation of the Gospel.

The General Conference special Sunday services, May 26, were conducted by Bishop Thomas Bowman, the first elected of the recent additions to the Episcopal board. The house, as on the two preceding Sundays, was filled with an attentive and appreciative audience.

The exercises were begun at 3:30 by singing the hymn

"There is a fountain filled with blood," which was read by Bishop Bowman, and sung by the congregation. Dr. John Gere then led in prayer, which was followed by reading of the Scriptures by Bishop Harris. Mr. Martin, chairman of the Committee of Entertainment, said that two weeks ago he asked for a penny collection, which had been given; one week ago he asked for a stamp collection, and it had been received; this week the committee ask for greenbacks in order to help defray the expenses of the house. A collection was accordingly taken.

Bishop Merrill then read the hymn—

"Salvation, oh, the joyful sound!"

after the singing of which Bishop Bowman announced his text, St. John, chapter 19, verse 10—"For the son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." This is, said the preacher, emphatically an age of facts. Scientists say that they have nothing to do with anything but facts, but in dealing with one class of facts they too often lose sight of another and no less important class. Sin is a fact. It is all about us with its terrific consequences. It is not merely a doctrine or a truth taught in the Bible; it is an ever-existing fact, and is as real in lands where the Bible never was heard of as in Christian countries. Everywhere men violate the laws of their physical and moral nature. It is therefore as incumbent upon the philosopher as upon the Christian to endeavor to solve the problem of sin, its cause and cure. I believe that sin is here, because the possibility of virtue includes the possibility of vice, though this may not satisfy others. I am not here to assign a reason satisfactory for all. We deal with it as we have it. God did not make sin. He created man with absolute freedom, and in the exercise of this fearful power man chose to transgress. In the Scriptures, and in the Scriptures alone, do we find a remedy for sin, and I have learned that when a theory is given which explains a difficult problem, we are bound to accept it until a better one is found. Let Philosophy present to me some better scheme of salvation than that presented through the Scriptures before it asks me to give up the gospel plan. Jesus came to seek and to save that which was lost. We could not use this language of Christ without admitting his pre-existence; for he came of his own volition. His nature was two-fold; He possessed a human body and a human soul. These were born of the Virgin; but there was a pre-existing nature which was divine in the truest and broadest sense. This is a mystery. Shall we therefore hesitate to believe it? I take a glass of water to the chemist, and he tells me it is made up of oxygen and hydrogen. How are they united? Tell me, ye material philosophers. Chemical affinity—what is that? I drop this glass, and it falls. Why? Gravity, you will say. What is that? Tell me how my soul exists in my body, and I will tell you how the pre-existing divine soul existed in combination with the human soul and body. Call it God-affinity if you will, it is as good a name as the arbitrary terms used to describe, yet not to explain, facts in physical science. We have this other important fact, that Christ came into the world to save sinners, not merely to say that salvation was possible, but to make it possible; not to point out the way, but to hew it out. Where do we look for the glory of Jesus? not in his character, beautiful as it is, but in his sufferings and death on the cross. God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of Christ. On the theory that the death of Christ was only that of a patriot or martyr, there are some facts connected with it which to me would be utterly inexplicable.—The martyr's death is one of triumph. He has the promise that in the valley and shadow of death he shall fear no evil. But the soul of Christ was exceeding sorrowful. In the garden he prayed that, if possible, the cup might pass from him, and on the cross he uttered words such as never fell from mortal lips. I explain this on the theory that the divine soul which was in him was made an offering for sin. To take a practical view of the matter. Every bright spot on the earth is one where the cross exerts its influence. The gospel is the only thing which can take humanity from its degradation and lift it up to the high level of Christian manhood.

Dr. Olin closed with prayer, after which the doxology was sung.

The burglars in Memphis, Tenn., do not seem to have that fear of the police which is becoming to people in their station in life. They broke into the office of the chief of the force a few nights ago and plundered it of counterfeit money, the pictures of the rogues' gallery, a fine assortment of the tools of their trade, and whatever else in portable form they could lay their hands on. It seems to be a question whether the police control the burglars, or the burglars have it all their own way with the police.

THE Harrisburg Telegraph, speaking of Mr. Mercur, says: "The best test of a man's merits is his home popularity." This is an unfortunate allusion. Judge Mercur's "merit" by this test, it must be at a low ebb, as in a district where the Radical majority usually foots up from 1500 to 1700, he was elected to the present Congress by the meagre majority of 127 votes.—Danville Intelligencer.

Dare They Face the Music!

Upon the subject of Grant's nepotism the N. Y. Tribune has the following bold utterances:

"Slander," do you say? Let us have no misunderstanding. The Tribune asserts that our most illustrious Presidents have uniformly deprecated the appointment of their relatives to office as wrong and pernicious, and have acted in general accordance with this sentiment. We charge that Gen. Grant has in three years appointed to office more persons related to himself and his family than all our former Presidents did in their eighty years of administration. And we are confident, but do not charge, that the emoluments which have accrued to Gen. Grant's relatives have exceeded those realized by all the relatives of our preceding Presidents during their respective terms of office.

Will The Times meet us squarely on the main point—namely, the number of his and his family's relatives appointed by Gen. Grant to office, with that of the like appointment of all his predecessors, respectively and in the aggregate? If issue is joined on this point, we shall proceed to develop the facts. We will consider their bearing afterward.

THE next Exhibition of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society will be held at Erie, on the 17th of September, lasting four days.

CANDIDATES for office are unusually smiling and serene to those they meet, and morbidly anxious about the health of the voter and his family.

GRAPE vines have suffered greatly from the length and severity of the past winter, and many of them in this vicinity will have to be cut down. Many fruit trees have been killed in this town.

THE Butler Herald reports a severe frost on the 18th, sufficiently so to injure the buds of plum and peach trees. This is certainly a pretty late visit of the icy "Jack."

WE were visited on Monday last by a heavy shower and during its continuance hail stones of goodly size fell for a few moments. No damage was done to buds as far as we have learned.

ON Sunday, the 19th inst., Rev. J. P. Tustin baptized in the Fishingcreek two young ladies, and on last Sunday the same solemn ceremony was performed on Mrs. Aaron Smith.

WILKES BARRE is to have two new banks—the "People's Bank," of which Walter G. Sterling and R. J. Flick are the leading spirits, and the "Germania Bank" of which Lewis Landmesser is one of the prime movers.

THE Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has just decided that "the use by a citizen of public ways is that of transit only—loungers who occupy the public highway are obstructions of the public right of way, and nuisances."

THE Democracy of Lancaster county have elected John T. MacGonigle and James Duffy as delegates to the Reading Convention, with instructions to vote for C. R. Buckalew, "first, last, and all the time."

We publish this week the able though lengthy address of Capt. W. McClelland before the Pa. Reserve Association at Wilkes Barre. It gives evidence of much labor and thought in its production, and marks its author as a man of unusual ability.

THE Lewisburg Chronicle says that Williamsport is four miles long, and about as wide as a piece of hemlock bark. It contains some 10,000 inhabitants, about half as many mortgages, a handsome permanent debt, and an editor who tries to talk a little Dutch.

THE through morning train on the L. & B. R. R. ran off the track near Plymouth on Tuesday last, the switch being misplaced. No one was injured but the engine, a fine new one, was badly damaged and turned upside down.

THE bridge over the canal near the river bridge at Catawissa was carried away on Tuesday morning by a boat. All the woodwork was knocked into the stream. The unusually high water in the canal was the cause of the accident. Repairs will be made immediately.

SOME thirty feet of the roof of the bridge over Catawissa creek, at the Paper Mill, was blown off during the storm of Monday last. A new frame building on Main Street, in Catawissa, was twisted out of all shape by the same storm. The carpenters, however, think the building can be restored to its former uprightness without taking it down.

COL. LEVI L. TATE, of the Williamsport Sun, the man who once edited a paper in Berwick, and losing his wife, published "that he had been left with seven small children and one at the breast," is in favor of Gen. Cass for Governor.—Berwick Indepen't.

WE have received the first number of The Science of Health, a new monthly, devoted to health on Hygienic principles. It is filled with short, well written articles on health and general subjects, and illustrated with numerous cuts. Its price, $2 per year, will place it within reach of all. Published by Samuel R. Wells, 389 Broadway, New York.

DROWNED.—A young man was drowned on Sunday morning near Lee's ferry. He was a hired hand on a canal boat. The captain called him up at 4 o'clock to wash off the deck. Later in the morning, when the captain came from the cabin, he was missing, and was soon after found at the bottom of the water, near the boat. He was about 17 years of age, and was from down the river. We did not learn his name.—Plymouth Star.

"WHAT NEXT?" is the peculiar title of a new monthly paper for "Wide-awake boys and girls." It is very attractive in form and feature, and its contents are interesting and instructive. The subscription price is surprisingly low, being only 30 cents a year, 25 cents in clubs of four, and 20 cents when twenty-five or more are ordered to one address. Specimen copies are sent on receipt of stamp. Address, Publisher of What Next? Chicago, Ill.

A MAN named John N. Simons, was scalded to death near Tunkhannock, on the 8th inst. From a note-book in his possession, the following was gathered: "John N. Simons, Rome, State of New York." He married the daughter of Mary E. Hoover, of Hanover, Luzerne county Pa. His wife died last June. He said he was 29 years old last March, and has a brother and mother living somewhere in the State of New York. A short time ago he made a will, being very unwell, and said he was worth $1,800. It is a mystery as yet where this property is located. Papers throughout the country please copy.

IT is said that Northumberland county has no less than forty candidates for Sheriff. Trade must be slack or patriotism rampant in that region. Just think of thirty-nine disappointed office seekers growling over defeat.

NORTHUMBERLAND is looking up. It proposed to erect car shops there at a cost of $25,000, and, we are informed, more than this required amount has been already subscribed. As a natural consequence, the value of real estate has increased lately, and property in the town is changing hands.

LAST week's North Carolinian notices the arrival, in Elizabeth City, of Gilbert H. Fowler and wife, of Fowlersville, this County. In the same number the editor returns thanks to a friend for several baskets of fine strawberries. It will be some time before we are called on to do the same.

THREE absorbers of alcoholic stimulants were incarcerated on Thursday night, having miscalculated the strength of their heads or that of the whisky. Last week was a prolific one for Lock-up victims, there having been no less than seven of these transient boarders. Is whisky any cheaper than it has been?

EDWARD BIDLEMAN, aged eighteen years, a son of E. B. Bidleman, of this town, met with a terrible death at Northumberland on Monday last. He was employed as brakeman on the P. & E. R. R. and whilst coupling some freight cars was caught between the bumpers, crushing in his right side and mutilating the shoulder and arm. His body was brought here on Monday night.

DANVILLE was crowded with visitors last week on the occasion of the visit of Barnum's Show. Citizens of Columbia, Montour and Lycoming Counties were present in large numbers. It is a remarkable fact, that none of them, so far as we personally ascertained, were there to see the show; all went on "business." We had no idea Danville was such a lively place for trade. Some ten thousand people managed to finish their "business" about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and were seated in the big tent, to witness the sports of the arena.

THE Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association will meet in Convention at Pittsburg on Tuesday, June 11, in the Third Presbyterian Church of that city. In addition to the necessary business of an annual meeting, there will be addresses, discussions and exercises of general interest. The Pennsylvania, Reading, Connellsville, and Alleghenny Valley railroads will issue round trip tickets at reduced rates.

DICKINSON SEMINARY.—The twenty-fourth commencement exercises of this institution will be held Thursday, June 20th, in the Academy of Music, Williamsport.

The Belles Lettres General Society, will hold their annual reunion on Tuesday, the 18th, at 2 P. M. The address before the society will be delivered by B. B. Hamlin, D. D., at 8 P. M. Dr. Sims will preach the annual sermon, and Dr. Newman, of Washington, will deliver an address.

Excursion tickets will be issued by the Catawissa R. R., good from June 13th, to June 22d inclusive, on presentation of an invitation which can be procured of W. J. Buckalew.

ON Wednesday, May 22, the Methodist General Conference sitting in New York city elected five Bishops. Of these, the one who received the largest number of votes was Rev. Thomas Bowman, D. D., who was born in Berwick, this county, where his father yet resides. Dr. Bowman was a graduate of Dickinson College. For ten years he was the president of Dickinson Seminary, at Williamsport, and in 1859 he was elected president of Asbury University, at Greencastle, Ind., where his home now is. He is very popular as a preacher and one of the prominent orators of the church. He is also celebrated as a teacher, being one of the most popular instructors in the Methodist Episcopal Church. We publish a sermon of his elsewhere.

WE learn from a Pittston paper that Mr. John M. Barton, a former resident of Bloomsburg, and known to many of our readers, was assaulted last week at the Eagle Hotel in Pittston, where he is now established. Some worthless fellow armed with a pistol and filled with rage and bad whisky (which we do not believe Mr. Barton sold him) entered the hotel and uttered bloody threats, flourishing the pistol and expressing a warm desire to quench the vital spark of Mr. Barton. The man was finally ejected and made his escape although the Chief of Police strove earnestly to interview him. It would seem advisable for Mr. Barton to arm himself as is the custom in the Pacific States, and do part of the pistol business himself when assaulted by vagrom men disguised in Pittston whisky.

AT a meeting of the Town Council, held May 4, E. R. Ikeler presented the petition of numerous citizens asking for the opening, widening and straightening of Market Street through and along the lot of Martha Wells, below Third Street. John G. Freeze presented a petition asking that pavements on Third Street, between East and West streets be made eight feet in width.

At a meeting held on May 11, a petition was presented by John G. Freeze, praying for the opening of Main Street at its full width to the Normal School. This looks to the removal of the Forks Hotel.

On the 27th of May the Council received a petition of citizens asking for the widening of Third Street, between Whiteman's alley and the Roman Catholic church property. A resolution was passed to notify Martha Wells that the Council intended taking action as to the widening of Market Street through and along her property and that a meeting would be held on the 31st of May, at which she might attend if she desired to be heard in relation to the same. A similar notice was also ordered to be served on the owners of the Forks Hotel and Tannery property adjoining, in relation to the opening of Main Street. Two Ordinances were passed which are published elsewhere.

The following persons were appointed on the police force for the present year: Thomas Geddes, Chief; A. Noble, Isaiah Hagenbuch, Isaac Rodarmel, Jackson Hower, James McBride and Peter Billmyer.

COL. V. E. PIOLETT, for a number of years our candidate for Congress, has given in full adhesion to Horace Greeley.

THE millinery store and dwelling of Daniel A. Hess, in Mifflinville, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday afternoon of last week. The building was a frame and was partially insured. Some of the millinery goods were saved, but the greater part of the contents of the building, furniture, &c., were lost. The fire was undoubtedly accidental, the flames being first discovered on the roof.

THE election of James Dennis (colored) to the Bloomsburg Town Council will be contested, and June 1st is set apart for the hearing. The proceedings are instituted by Democrats. This is rather silly. Buckalew has his theory of cumulative voting put into practice in his own town and then, because it operates so as to elect a man objectionable to him, he contests the election. Shame on such conduct. It is on a par with his counting out of the Democratic County Convention, those delegates who opposed his wishes.—Montour American.

The editor of the American has succeeded in getting as many misstatements in the above article as was well possible, and evidences either perfect ignorance of the subject or a wilful perversion of facts from personal dislike to Mr. Buckalew. Dennis' election is not solely contested by Democrats, as is plainly evident from the names signed to the petition to Court, some of them being well known as consistent Republicans—standing as well in their party as the editor of the American. To have allowed the election of Dennis to pass unquestioned would have been to establish a precedent in direct opposition to law. Had Dennis been legally elected there would have been no contest, but he was not. This is the matter in a nut shell, and as we prefer to believe the editor of the American ignorant, rather than untruthful, we submit this statement to his consideration.

THE Committee appointed by the Town Council of Danville to make an investigation concerning the best mode of constructing water works, after visiting various cities and towns have unanimously decided in favor of the Holly system. There seems to be a general testimony in favor of this plan. At Buffalo, for instance, they say they found the Holly system and the reservoir cost twice as much as the Holly, the Holly was considered much the best. The Committee say that the Holly is much the cheapest. If this be true the consumers of water will certainly prefer the Holly system, since it not only furnishes the cheapest water, but dispenses with the objectionable reservoir and at the same time furnishes the best security against the spread of fire, which is an important consideration.—Republican.

As a citizen of this town, and a taxpayer, we have taken considerable interest in the water works question, but must condemn the persistent efforts of journalists to foist one system upon the town to the exclusion of others. We have learned that the agent of the "Holly system" agreed to pay a certain Danville editor $100 for the influence of his paper in securing the adoption of this plan, and we know that the editor advocated it. Similar notices have appeared in the Republican of this place and we believe that he has been offered a similar amount in case it is adopted here.

If the system is the best—and we know nothing to the contrary—it ought to win without an attempt to bribe the press. Besides, agents who attempt bribery will go beyond the press. To employ such means is a confession of weakness, and would damn a good case.

THE Lackawanna & Bloomsburg R. R. Co., we believe, is entitled to pre-eminence over all the soulless corporations with which this State abounds. The conveniences which it affords the business and traveling public are in an inverse ratio to its rates of charges. Its latest exhibition of generous regard for the people's comfort was given on Thursday of last week. Barnum's show was to be in Danville on that day and numbers of people living within reach of the Railroad desired to attend, whereupon this noble Company put a special train on the road to accommodate the sight-seers. This train consisted of a lot of open cars, with boards laid across for seats, affording no protection from the heat, dust, or sparks from the engine. We are informed that several ladies had their shawls and dresses ruined by the burning sparks. No extra cars were put upon the up-train in the evening and but a portion of the large crowd waiting at the Danville station was enabled to obtain entrance to the cars, and of those who did get inside not one-third could be seated. A perfect ignorance was manifested as to the running of an extra train. There was one we learn, which left Danville about 7½ o'clock, but no one about the station seemed to have any knowledge of it. When it did appear it was found to be the same, or alike set of open cars, which took passengers in the morning. If the L. & B. R. R. was one of those obliging corporations which could claim any sympathy whatever by virtue of low rates, there might be some reason for silence, but as its passenger rates are excessive and its freights simply outrageous, we believe it to be proper to hold it up for the public contempt it merits. If this rapacious Company can not exhibit either cheapness, comfort or convenience in its management, it would be a public blessing to take away its charter, which it has persistently and shamefully abused, and let the road lie idle until a different and better state of affairs was inaugurated. The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western road, which leases and runs it would earn general thanks if they would cut down the rates or show that they have some little regard for the people from whom they derive their revenue.

THE fact of two thousand a week more Singer Sewing Machines being sold, proves beyond all doubt or question that the Singers are the best. They have been freely tested for many years in the cities and principal towns of this country, and found to be simple, durable, fast, easy to learn, not liable to get out of order, and always reliable for good work.

Ladies I. W. Hartman has Fans by the hundred for 5 cts. to 1,75 each.

If you want a good double combined corn plow, go to S. Huber & Son, Danville, Pa. Farmers pronounce it the best in the market, for lightness of draught and for good work. 22-1w

You can buy of I. W. Hartman 8 yds of Brown or Bleached Muslin for $1.00

THE BAY ROM REMEDY for weakness of the stomach is a dose of Rum Bitters. Rum is not surcharged with Fusel Oil, a deadly element, which is rendered more active by the pungent astringents with which it is combined. If your stomach is weak, or your liver or bowels disordered, tone, strengthen and regulate them with VEGETABLE BITTERS, a pure VEGETABLE STOMACHIC, containing no Fusel Oil, made from Alcohol, and capable of infusing new vitality into your exhausted and disordered system.

VITALIZE THE HAIR.—Why does the hair become harsh and dry—why does it fall out—why does it become gray? Simply because the life has gone out of it. The cheapest dressings from the shops are as the grass draws aliment from the soil, and when the supply of nutriment is cut off (it either runs the product withers and dies. As the first symptom of decay, therefore, the united or half-fed roots of the hair should be refreshed and reinforced with LYON'S KATHAIRON, the only preparation which will nourish the filaments and keep them in a vigorous condition after they have begun to suffer from a deficiency of their natural stimulant. As long as the Kathairon fluid still lends, it will, by the degree of friction, morning and evening, so long will it be impossible for the hair to whiten or fall out from the scalp.

CASTORIA.—Is a scientific vegetable preparation; a perfect substitute for and more effective than Castor Oil and is pleasant to take. It regulates the system in a most remarkable manner; does not distress or gripe, but operates when all other remedies have failed. It is certain to supersede Pills, Castor Oil, Soothing Syrups and all other purgative and exciting medicines. The Castoria contains neither Minerals, Morphine nor Alcohol. By its combination, soothing effect, it assimilates the food and produces natural sleep particularly adapting it to crying and teething children. It cures Stomach Ache, Wind Colic, Constipation, Flatulency, Sour Curds and Kills Worms. Make your Druggist send for it; he will always keep it, as every family must have it. It costs but fifty cents a bottle. 4w

HOW WE USED TO BE PHYSICKED.—Who does not remember the time when spring purgation was considered indispensable to summer health? No matter for wry faces, the inevitable salts and senna, rhubarb, or calomel and jalap, must be administered. These "spring medicines," the seeming cures were told, were to "carry off humors" and hearty during the summer. We all know now that this was a fallacy; that new vigor, not depletion, is what is required at the commencement of the summer solstice. As a preparation for the enervating effects of oppressive summer weather, a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is highly expedient. This famous vegetable preparation has three prominent properties: It renovates, purifies, and regulates just the functions of the body. It is composed exclusively of pure vegetable productions, viz: the essential principles of Mennighaela Rye, and the most efficacious tonic and alterative roots, herbs and gums known to medical botanists. Hence, it is an absolutely safe medicine, and no tincture of the Pharmacopœia can compare with it either in purity, or the variety its objects, and its comprehensive results. Happily for mankind, the theory that it was necessary to prostrate a patient in order to cure him, is forever exploded, and the true philosophical doctrine, that vigor is the great antagonist of disease, has taken its place. Hostetter's Bitters is an invigorant, and hence it is the proper medicine for the feeble at this most trying season of the year.

Be sure that you obtain the genuine article, as there are numerous worthless imitations in the market. Look to the ornamental stamp, the engraved label, and the name blown into the glass. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is sold in bottles only. May9-4w

Sewing Machine Sales for 1871.

There is a circumstance connected with the late disastrous fire at Chicago which deserves special mention, as expressive of the comparative estimation in which the various Sewing Machines now in use in this country are held by the Western people. It is stated in the report of the Special Relief Committee of that city, as published in the Chicago Tribune of March 9th of the present year, that the whole number of Sewing Machines for which orders have been issued to the date of the report is 2,944, on which the committee have paid the sum of $71,430.80. Of these the Singer Manufacturing Company supplied 2,427 Wheeler & Wilson, 235; Howe, 127; Grover & Baker, 44; Wilcox & Gibbs, 30; Florence, 18; Finkle & Lyon, 20, Blees, 17; Ætna, 11; Wilson, 5; Western Empire, 2; Manhattan, 2; Davis, 2; Elliptic, 1; Gold Medal, 1; and American Buttonhole, 2.

This report indicates how well the Singer Sewing Machine maintains its early and well-earned popularity. It may be regarded as one of the pioneers in the Sewing Machine manufacture, which is one of the most remarkable events in the progress of mechanical invention, and one of the most striking features of modern productive industry. Additional evidence, however, is given of the popularity of the Singer New Family Sewing Machine, by the annual returns made by the various companies and sworn to by them in obtaining g licenses in 1871, from the owners of the Sewing Machine patents.

Those returns show that the Singer Manufacturing Company sold during the year, 181, 260 machines; the Wheeler & Wilson Company, 128,526; Grover & Baker Sewing Machine Company, 30,838; Weed Sewing Machine Company, 29,605; Howe Machine Company (January 1st to July 1st) 34,010; Wilcox & Gibbs, 30,127; Wilson Sewing Machine Company, 21,153; American B. H. O. & S. M. Company, 20,121; Original Howe Sewing Machine Company, 20,051; Florence S. M. Co., 11,568; Domestic S. M. Co., 10,297; Finkle, Lyon & Co., 7,639; Ætna S. M. Co., 4,720; Blees S. M. Co, 4,557; Elliptic S. M. Co., 4,525; Empire S. M. Co., 2,-065; Parham S. M. Co., 2,050; Bartman & Fanton S. M. Co., 1,604; Barthet S. M. Co., 614; J. G. Falsom, 580 McKay's S. M. Association, 218; C. F. Tompson, 147; and the Union Buttonhole machine, 121; thus making the sales of the Singer machines exceed those of all others, 52,000.—New York Sunday News.

There is no large City in the union where Sewing Machines are so well understood or as many attachments made as in Chicago, which proves beyond all doubt that if the real merits of Singers New Family Machines were generally known, few others could be sold.

Important Testimony!

The following letters are among the many we are constantly receiving from persons who have been cured by

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup,
Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic,
AND
Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Pennsgrove, Salem County, New Jersey.

FEBRUARY 27, 1872.

DR. J. H. SCHENCK, N. E. corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia.

Respected Sir—I take pleasure in adding my testimony to that of the many others who have been cured by the efficacy of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.

Consumption has been hereditary with my family, most of its members having died of it at early ages. My mother and three brothers died at the age of 31, one brother at 27, and my sister at 15.

I was, when about 21 years, seized with liver complaint, which rapidly developed into Pulmonary Consumption. I was compelled to relinquish my employment (that of a blacksmith).

I consulted skillful and eminent physicians, and tried many patent nostrums, but without success, so that my friends were sure that there was no hope of my recovery, for I was reduced from 180 pounds to 104, and was not able to do anything without assistance.

By what I now look upon as a Providential interposition, I was induced to try your remedies, and place myself under your treatment, and so rapid and thorough was my recovery, that it seemed as though some superhuman power was at work, and to-day I am as well as at any time during my life. I weigh 192 pounds, am 33 years old, and for some time have been regularly attending to my business, bidding fair to live to a good old age.

I am thankful to you beyond expression for having placed me in a position whereby I am a benefit instead of a burden to my family.

Your Mandrake Pills are the only medicine I ever use now. I think they are the best in the world.

I can refer you to hundreds of my neighbors who will verify all I have written, and any information any of my fellow citizens may desire will be freely and gladly given, upon receipt of stamp, by Yours, etc.,
JOHN C. HEWITT.

Key West, Fla., Feb. 19, 1872.

DR. J. H. SCHENCK, N. E. cor. Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia.

Dear Sir:—Please forward, per first steamer, six bottles Sea Weed Tonic and twelve bottles Pulmonic Syrup.

Your medicines are of such value that I cannot be without them in my household, and in fact no family should be without them.

I have given them a fair test, and cheerfully declare them to be even better than you claim.

Very respectfully yours, &c.
W. A. WHITEHURST.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1, 1872.

DR. J. H. SCHENCK:

DEAR SIR—I take pleasure in sending to you this certificate of the wonderful cure your Pulmonic syrup and Sea Weed Tonic produced. My little daughter, aged two years, was so badly inflamed that it was almost impossible for me to swallow my food.

I am on a visit to my uncle, Mr. Charles Johnson, No. 812 Federal street, who, seeing your medicines raised him from almost death after all other means had failed, and he having, therefore, full confidence in the virtue of your remedies, strongly recommended me to try them. I did so, and in one week from the time I commenced taking them my throat underwent a very great change for the better, which I am happy to say remains without any difficulty or pain. I can scarcely find words to express my gratitude for the speedy relief your invaluable medicines produced upon me, and I deem it but an act of gratitude to give you the acknowledgment of my appreciation. Yours respectfully,
RACHEL A. JACOBS,
No. 106 West Thirty-third street, New York.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SEA WEED TONIC,
and MANDRAKE PILLS.

These are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption. Dr. Schenck has been in constant practice over thirty years and carefully examining lungs, and knows his medicines, if properly taken, will cure Consumption. His Mandrake Pills cleanse the liver and stomach; his Sea Weed Tonic dissolves the food, stimulates the coating of the stomach, and makes it digest. His Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter, and causes it to come off without any exertion.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea Weed Tonic, $1.25 per bottle, or $7.00 per half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents per box.

is a powerful Tonic, specially adapted for use in Spring, when the languid and debilitated system needs strength and vitality; it will give vigor to the feeble, strength to the weak, animation to the dejected, activity to the sluggish, rest to the weary, quiet to the nervous, and health to the infirm.

It is a South American plant, which, according to the medical men of London and Paris, possesses the most powerful tonic properties known to Materia Medica, and is well known in Europe and South America as having wonderful curative qualities, and has been long used as a specific in all cases of Impurities of the Blood, Derangements of the Liver and Spleen, Tumors Dropsy, Poverty of the Blood, Debility, Weakness of the Intestines, Uterine or Urinary Organs.

Dr. Wells' Extract of Jurubeba

Is strengthening and nourishing; like nutritious food taken into the stomach, it assimilates and diffuses itself through the circulation, giving vigor and health.

It regulates the bowels, quiets the nerves, acts directly on the secretive organs, and, by its powerful Tonic and Alterative effects, produces healthy and vigorous action to the whole system.

Having secured the Agency of the

A TREMENDOUS SUCCES

could forget such a topic! In the days of chivalry, "Honor and the Ladies" was the motto graven on the sword as well as the heart of every knight. Shall we be less deferent to the engaging claims of gentleness and beauty! What can I say of our warm hearted sisters except that they are among the noblest and fairest of the daughters of men. When the pestilence of war was desolating our land and wounds and disease had prostrated thousands of stalwart forms upon beds of suffering, many a burning cheek has been laved and many a fevered tongue moistened by the hand of a ministering angel in the shape of a woman. In the hospital, camp, and in the field itself where every form of death and modification of woe met the eye and wrung the soul, even there the blessed presence of woman appeared, as she moved to and fro in her voluntary mission of love and mercy. Many a brave soldier, far from home and kindred has entered the dark valley of death with the whispered words of hope from the devout lips of some gentle woman yet vibrating in his ear—the last sounds heard on earth. In this work our sisters of Pennsylvania were foremost. Ever responsive to the faintest calls of humanity, their days at home were spent in the accumulation of money, clothing and delicacies for the army. Nearly every Pennsylvania woman was a member of an association with this object, and our own organizations of this character were the first in the Northern States. The Cooper Shop and Union Volunteer Refreshment Committees of Philadelphia—both likewise the work of Peansylvania women—fed, nursed, and lodged nearly seven hundred and fifty thousand soldiers of all States during the first three years of the war, and the veterans of every State bless the women of Pennsylvania. There was not a city or a town throughout our State but had its local organization for the accumulation of hospital supplies, and the relief of those who might be in want.

This is our seventh annual reunion. It is fitting that we should assemble in this way at stated intervals, and freshen our interest in each other and our organization. As time rolls on, other associations may dim those of the past, yet we can never be strangers. Our ties are too strong to be so rudely broken. For years we shared the same hardships and faced the same perils. Circumstances have thrown us together more intimately than generally falls to the lot of a similar number, while a generous emulation has brought to light what good qualities we possess, and taught each other to respect them. Let us cherish these reunions, together, "and keep our memories green" in the heart of each. We see here to day, fellow-soldiers of this and our sister states, not members of the organization with which we were immediately connected. To those we wish all happiness and extend the heartiest welcome. The Pennsylvania Reserves formed but a part of that invincible body of heroic men who left home and family, sundering the dearest ties to obey the voice of duty and battle for the right. Bravery knows no climate, latitude, section nor State. Our sister commonwealths bore themselves as great members of a vast confederation of freemen should, whose only rivalry was in degree of love for the Union and in sacrifice for its perpetuation.

On this occasion we assemble on historic ground. We stand almost within the shadow of a memorial shaft reared to the memory of the gallant dead of a past age—the monument of Wyoming. Beneath its granite base rest our sires of the Revolution, and the placid Susquehanna murmurs a constant requiem for their repose. Every tree and shadow of this romantic valley is eloquent with associations of the past. Another generation seems to greet us as brethren, and to approve what we have done for our common country. Within sight of that monument and its suggestions, who can escape the recollection of our own gallant dead. A silent melancholy steals over our hearts as the thought arises of that vast body of our comrades for whom the struggles of life are over and the voice of ambition forever stilled. They have laid down their lives for their country. Some repose upon soil that was their enemy's; others sleep where they would wish to sleep, within their beloved Pennsylvania. At the thought of our dead brethren silence better accords with the nature of our feelings, and is more eloquent than any sentences that could be uttered by human lips. Upon that theme each has an orator within his own breast, speaking the eulogy of every departed hero. Let living tongues therefore keep silent and profane not their memory by ill-timed phrases of panegyric. They need none such. Every mound that covers a dead soldier teaches a lesson of the value of the Union and liberty. Let the living accept the monition, and cherish that for which such a price has been paid above every earthly possession.

Since our last meeting the hand of that dread adversary against whose assaults the bravest are impotent, has been busy in our ranks. On a peaceful Sabbath morning last November, two more comrades left their niches in our memories vacant. You all remember the studied and unvarying kindness of Dr. David Stanton, Surgeon of our Cavalry Regiment. His great skill and sympathetic heart promptly answered the faintest calls of humanity, and days and nights were spent in untiring ministrations to the unfortunate. He died before he assumed the functions of an honorable office to which he had been elected by a grateful people. In his death the Reserves lost a tried and trusted brother, his party an honest official, and his profession one of its brightest stars. Within a few hours of his decease, General Wellington H. Ent, the gallant Colonel of the no less gallant Sixth, passed away. He was a brave soldier, a devoted patriot, and an honest man. Only one year ago to-day, on the occasion of our last reunion, he addressed us so acceptably. The lips, to whose utterances we listened with such pleasure then, are now forever silent. His voice will never again summon us to the shock of battle, or charm us by its winning accents in the social gathering. He passed away before he had attained the prime of life, and his early career gave bright promise for the maturity of his powers.

To turn to the living, our Association imposes upon us certain duties to each other. The years of service under our common standard have cemented ties and created claims upon our mutual regard which we should ever esteem it our highest privilege to recognize. Time and separation are apt to cool the warmest feelings; estrangement to usurp the place which attachment used to hallow. But let us recall from time to time our common ties, sufferings, and perils, and such recollections will be an ever present talisman to avert the insidious approaches of coldness, and an inspiration to prompt the renderings of those mutual good offices which our connections as Reserves leads us to claim from each other. When in after years time has thinned our ranks, and with moistened eye the old Reserve thinks of his departed comrades, the recollection of the duties fulfilled and the claims of friendship met, will be to him an inexhaustable source of the purest refreshment.

As citizen-soldiers we rest also under obligations to our commonwealth.—Whose voice should be so potential in her councils as yours? Is the duty of the soldier to his country discharged when his sword is hung up? She has other enemies besides those who menaced her in the open field. These latter we have vanquished, but that insidious foe—the demagogue—still lurks in our midst; against whose approaches we must guard. Upon us fell the lot to defend our State in the field. Let us assume also the duty of protecting her at home, and save her from the fate that has in history so often overtaken communities once free the fate of becoming the plaything of politicians. Let every Reserve, let every soldier bear himself in this conflict as he did in those which we have met to-day to recall, and our Commonwealth will continue hereafter, as she has been, the Keystone of that glorious arch of States which like "the bow in the cloud" set by the Almighty hand, promises security and prosperity to all mankind.

Pennsylvania has been chosen as the stage whereon the Centennial Anniversary of the Union shall be celebrated. Here our infant republic was cradled, and from our midst most fittingly will rise the chorus of freemen which hails the attainment of her perfect stature. At that time may the Infinite Disposer of events vouchsafe that all who bear the name of American, all who ought to treasure in common with ourselves the glorious recollections of 1776, from every section and every State, shall hasten to swell the exulting throng; and on the historic soil of Pennsylvania, may a new Declaration of Independence be written—a declaration that the entire people of our far-reaching country, to its most distant boundry, are free, equal, and united.

We owe also a duty to our common country—the Union. This name has magic in it for every citizen of our broad land. Above all to us should it have special significance. That was the watch word during our stormy years in storm or in calm. It has cost thousands of our brothers' lives, and incalculable treasure has been lavished in its vindication. The sword has asserted its inviolability; now let the extended hand of fraternal kindness win our brethren from the errors into which they have strayed. The South can not remain but a conquered province, a subjugated territory. That would be a mockery of the name of republicanism. Its chastisement has been signal and exemplary. Let us complete the work, and make ourselves a people united also in spirit as well as in name.

Universal Amnesty should be the aspiration of every soldier, for true bravery is as quick to forgive as to resent. In this connection no words of mine could be more appropriate than the prediction of that statesmen and patriot, Mr. John Bright, made in the darkest hour of our late war, when speaking of this country: "I see one vast confederation extending in an unbroken line from the boisterous billows of the Atlantic to the more placid waters of the Pacific; from the frozen north to the glowing south; one people, one law, one language, one faith; and over all that wide continent I see the home of freedom, the refuge for the oppressed of every land and of every clime."

Young Folks.

The First Wife's Wedding Ring.

(CONCLUDED).

"Thus to thee, but how to me?" said the soldier; and when the giant departed, he set to work. But although he was so strong, and worked willingly, the trees seemed almost as hard as stone, and he made little progress. When he returned at night the giant asked him how he got on. "The trees are very hard," said he. "So they always have been since I have had idle servants."

"I will not be called idle a second time," thought the soldier, and next day he went early and worked his utmost. But the result was very small; and when he came home looking sad and weary, he could not fail to see that this gave great satisfaction to the giant.

Matters had gone on thus for some time, when one morning, as he went to his work, he found the little old woman gathering sticks as before.

"Listen," said she; "he shall not treat you as he treated others. Count seventy to the left from where you are working, and begin again. But do not let him know that you have made a fresh start; and do a little at the old place from time to time, as a blind."

And before he could thank her, the old woman was gone. Without more ado, however, he counted seventy from the old place, and hit the seventieth tree such a blow with his axe, that it came crashing down then and there. And he found that, one after another, the trees yielded to his blows, as if they were touchwood. He did a good day's work, gave a few stokes in the old place, and came home taking care to look as gloomy and sad as before.

Day by day he got deeper and deeper into the woods, the trees falling before him like dry elder twigs; and now the hardest part of his work was walking, backwards and forwards to the giant's house, for the forest seemed almost without end. But on the three hundred and sixty-sixth day from his first meeting the giant, he cut fairly through into an open plain, and as the light streamed in, a magpie flew away, and on searching her nest, the soldier found his mother's wedding ring. He also found many precious stones of priceless value, which were evidently the lost crown jewels. And as his term of service with the giant was now ended and his work done, he did not trouble himself to return, but with the ring and jewels in his pockets, set off to find his way to the king's palace. He soon fell in with a good humored fellow, who showed him the way and pointed out everything of interest on the way. As they drew near the great city, one of the royal carriages was driving out of the city gates, in which sat three beautiful ladies, who were the king's daughters.

"See the king's daughters," said the man; "the two eldest are engaged to marry two neighboring princes."

"And whom is the younges to marry?" asked the soldier, "for the is by far the most beautiful."

"She will never marry," answered the man, "for she is pledged to the man who shall find the lost crown jewels, and cut a path through the stone-wood forest that borders the king's domain; and that is as much as if she was pledged to the man who should fetch down the moon for her to play with—for the jewels are lost beyond all recall, and the wood is an enchanted forest."

"Nevertheless, she shall be wed with my mother's wedding ring," thought the soldier. But he kept his own council, and only waited till he smartened himself up before he sought an audience with the King, for he rightly thought there is a great deal in the first impression you make.

When he saw the King and showed the crown jewels, and told how he had cut through the forest and found the jewels in the magpie's nest, his claim to the Princess was clearly proved, and the King heaped riches and honors upon him; and the soldier being handsome, and clearly showing that he had been a brave, good man, he made himself so acceptable to the bride elect, that the wedding was fixed for an early day.

"May I bring my old father, Madam?" he asked of the Princess.

"That you certainly may," said she; "a good son will certainly make a good husband, and your father shall be my father."

So in great state he returned to his native village to bring his dear old father to his wedding, and as he entered the village, the hawthorn hedges were in bloom, the sun shone brightly, and the bells rang merrily for his return.

"Ding-dong! ding dong! did we not tell you to trust in God and do your duty, and we should ring for your return?" said the bells.

His stepmother forgot all her doubts as to his identity and welcomed him graciously, and was very anxious to go to court also. But her husband said, "No! you took such good care of the homestead, you must stay and look to it while I am away," and he would not let his son take her with him.

As for the giant, when he found he had been outwitted, he went off, and was never more heard of in those parts; but the soldier went and got the poor old weasened woman who had done him such good service, and took her to the city and took care of her all her life, and he said that one should never forget the smallest kindness received from another, and that ingratitude for favors was the meanest trait in man.

BROWER'S BLOCK,

EAST OF COURT HOUSE, MAIN STREET,

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

This Cut Illustrates the manner of Using

DR. PIERCE'S

Fountain Nasal Injector,

OR

DOUCHE.

This instrument is especially designed for the perfect application of

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY.

It is the only form of instrument yet invented with which fluid medicine can be carried high up and perfectly applied to all parts of the affected nasal passages, and the chambers or cavities communicating therewith, in which sores and ulcers frequently exist, and from which the catarrhal discharge generally proceeds. Far want of success in treating Catarrh heretofore has arisen largely from the impossibility of applying remedies to these cavities and chambers by any of the ordinary methods. This obstacle in the way of effecting cures is entirely overcome by the invention of the Douche. In using this instrument, the Fluid is carried by its own weight; no snuffing, forcing or pumping being required; no one need fail in a full gently flowing stream to the highest portion of the nasal passages, passes into and thoroughly cleanses all the sinuses and chambers connected therewith, and flows out of the opposite nostril. Its use is pleasant and so simple that a child can understand it. Full and explicit directions accompany each instrument. When used with this instrument, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures recent attacks of "Cold in the Head" by a few applications.

So perfect is its action in the worst forms of Catarrh. Frequent headache, discharge falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, thick mucus, purulent, offensive, &c. In others a dryness, dry, watery, weak or inflamed eyes, roaring, ringing noises or obstruction of the head passages, dizziness, hawking and coughing to clear throat, ulcerations, scabs from ulcers, voice injured, nasal tones, offensive breath, impaired or total obstruction of sense of smell and taste, dizziness, mental depression, loss of appetite, indigestion, enlarged tonsils, irritating cough, &c. Only a few of these symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, when used with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, and accompanied with the constitutional treatment which is recommended in the pamphlet that wraps each bottle of the Remedy, is a perfect specific for this loathsome disease, and the proprietor offers, in good faith, $500 reward for a case he can not cure. The Remedy is mild and pleasant to use, containing no strong or caustic drugs or poisons. The Catarrh Remedy is sold at 50 cents. Douche at 50 cents, by all Druggists, or either will be mailed by proprietor on receipt of 60 cents.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

PURELY DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

EUREKA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the victim on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier and a Life-giving Principle, a Perfect Restorative and Invigorator of the System, curing all diseases caused by vitiated blood, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition; in treating and invigorating both mind and body. They are easy of administration, prompt in their action, certain in their results, safe and pleasant to all forms of diseases.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. In these complaints it has no equal, and one bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the positive merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, and in Bilious Diseases.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worm, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Grateful thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in six languages. Every dose is destroying these worms or their eggs, and a few doses will free the system from every worm that infests it. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Mechanical Diseases. Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, will be subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS once or twice a week, as a Preventive.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal organs. In their treatment, a purgative, assisting the cathartic action of the liver, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily relieve the diseased viscera in such manner that the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and powerfully exciting the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Scrofula or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Scaldhead, Sore Eyes, Rheumatism, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all the above mentioned classes of diseases by purifying the Blood, which is the great source of health or disease, and by resolving away the effete matter in the body, the lymphatic deposit the blood, which is the great source of health or disease, and by resolving away the effete matter in the body, the lymphatic deposit the blood, which is the great source of health or disease, and by resolving away the effete matter in the body, the lymphatic deposit the blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

The properties of Dr. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic and Carminative, Nutritious, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific and Anti-Bilious.

The Aperient and mild Laxative properties of Dr. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are the best remedy known for Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Fever, Inflammation of the Liver and Kidneys, Colic, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Joints, Rheumatism, Gout, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Sour Stomach, Sick-Headache, Giddiness, Fullness after meals, Dizziness of the Head, Hot Hands, Drowsiness, Chills and Fever, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Shoulder, Breast, Side, Back, Loins, and Limbs, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and great Depression of Spirits, can be effectually cured only by purifying the blood with VINEGAR BITTERS.

Directions. Take of the Bitters on going to bed, at night from one to two wineglassfuls, or as much as will produce a pleasant operation. Eat good nourishing food, such as beef, mutton, poultry, game, oysters, fish, bread, vegetables, fruit, &c., and take exercise in the open air. Sleep on a mattress, and not on feathers. Wear flannel next the skin, and keep the feet dry, if you would avoid sickness.

BALTIMORE PIANOS.

We respectfully call the attention of those desiring to purchase our make of Pianos. We are satisfied that we can give satisfaction in every case. Our workmen skilful and experienced and are under the personal superintendence of the members of our firm. We use only the best seasoned timber, and the material in general is first class. Our Pianos without exception have the patent agraffes arrangement throughout, which in the opinion of the most competent judges is pronounced valuable. By this improvement a Piano is made more durable and keeps the tone longer. We claim for our instruments that they are second to none and they combine all the essential elements that constitute superior workmanship. We will give a written guarantee for five years.

Mr. CONRAD FREIMAN, member of our firm, will visit Bloomsburg four times a year to repair and attend to tuning of all Pianos, in the absence of Mr. FREIMAN, Mr. I. K. MILLER will attend to our business in Bloomsburg and is authorized to receive and solicit orders.
